About the presenter:

Steve is the Chief Imagination Officer at Living Maths, a STEAM-powered NGO where he teaches thousands of students weekly across the globe. His mission? To spread the joy of mathematics, science, space, engineering, edtech, numbers, problem solving, and creative thinking — to anyone willing to listen... and even to those who aren't.

Steve has a collection of shiny titles: 2020 Global Teacher Award recipient, two-time TEDx speaker, Kahoot Ambassador and Verified Educator, Microsoft Innovative Educator Expert, Space Foundation International Teacher Liaison, and 2024 World Space Week Award winner for STEM and Climate Education. He also moonlights as Head of PR for ASTEMI, Outreach Officer for the Humans to the Moon and Mars Summit, coordinator of one of South Africa's largest maths Olympiads, chief organizer of the Irish Kangaroo Maths Competition, and mastermind of the annual Living Maths Space Tour.

When he's not inspiring future astronauts and problem solvers, Steve practices karate, ju-jitsu, and two other Japanese words. He proudly holds a black belt in buffet, and currently maintains the national record for the lowest low jump ever attempted.
